

15 Things Fathers should tell their children

1.

"I love you"

- Tell our children that they are loved each and every chance we get! It seems to be abnormal for men to express their love verbally-let's change this mindset. Be sure to do this intentionally, so that it may transcend societal norms.

2. "It is ok to cry"

-Tell our children that releasing anger and pain through tears is perfectly normal and moreover.....refreshing! We all know that feeling of release after a good cry-let them know that the feeling is temporary and they will conquer it.

3. “Be proactive and not reactive”

- Tell our children to anticipate that things may not always go as planned and that they should expect to be flexible. Consider all options so that they can act with reason and with good intent to make informed decisions.

4. "All men and women come from a woman and they should be respected as such"

-Tell our children that the highest honor is to bear and produce nations. Only women possess such power and they should be honored for that power each and every day. Children should see motherhood as the most sacred and precious of titles that women can have!

5. "Men are protectors of all humanity and such protection should not be abused"

- Tell our children that a man has to protect the world from all evil and mal-intent! We have been commissioned to do these works so that we may build and not destroy our world as we know it. This is the true job of men and should be in the goals of all boys.

6. "The luxury of life is being a child"

- Tell our children to celebrate being a child and to stay innocent in their adolescent years. All children are to be nourished and nurtured for no fee whatsoever-granted that they remain in a child's place to secure the protections of all adults. Encourage our children to stay in this place so that they become productive and loving adults to pay it forward to other children.

7. "Generational wealth and health is the legacy we pursue as a family"

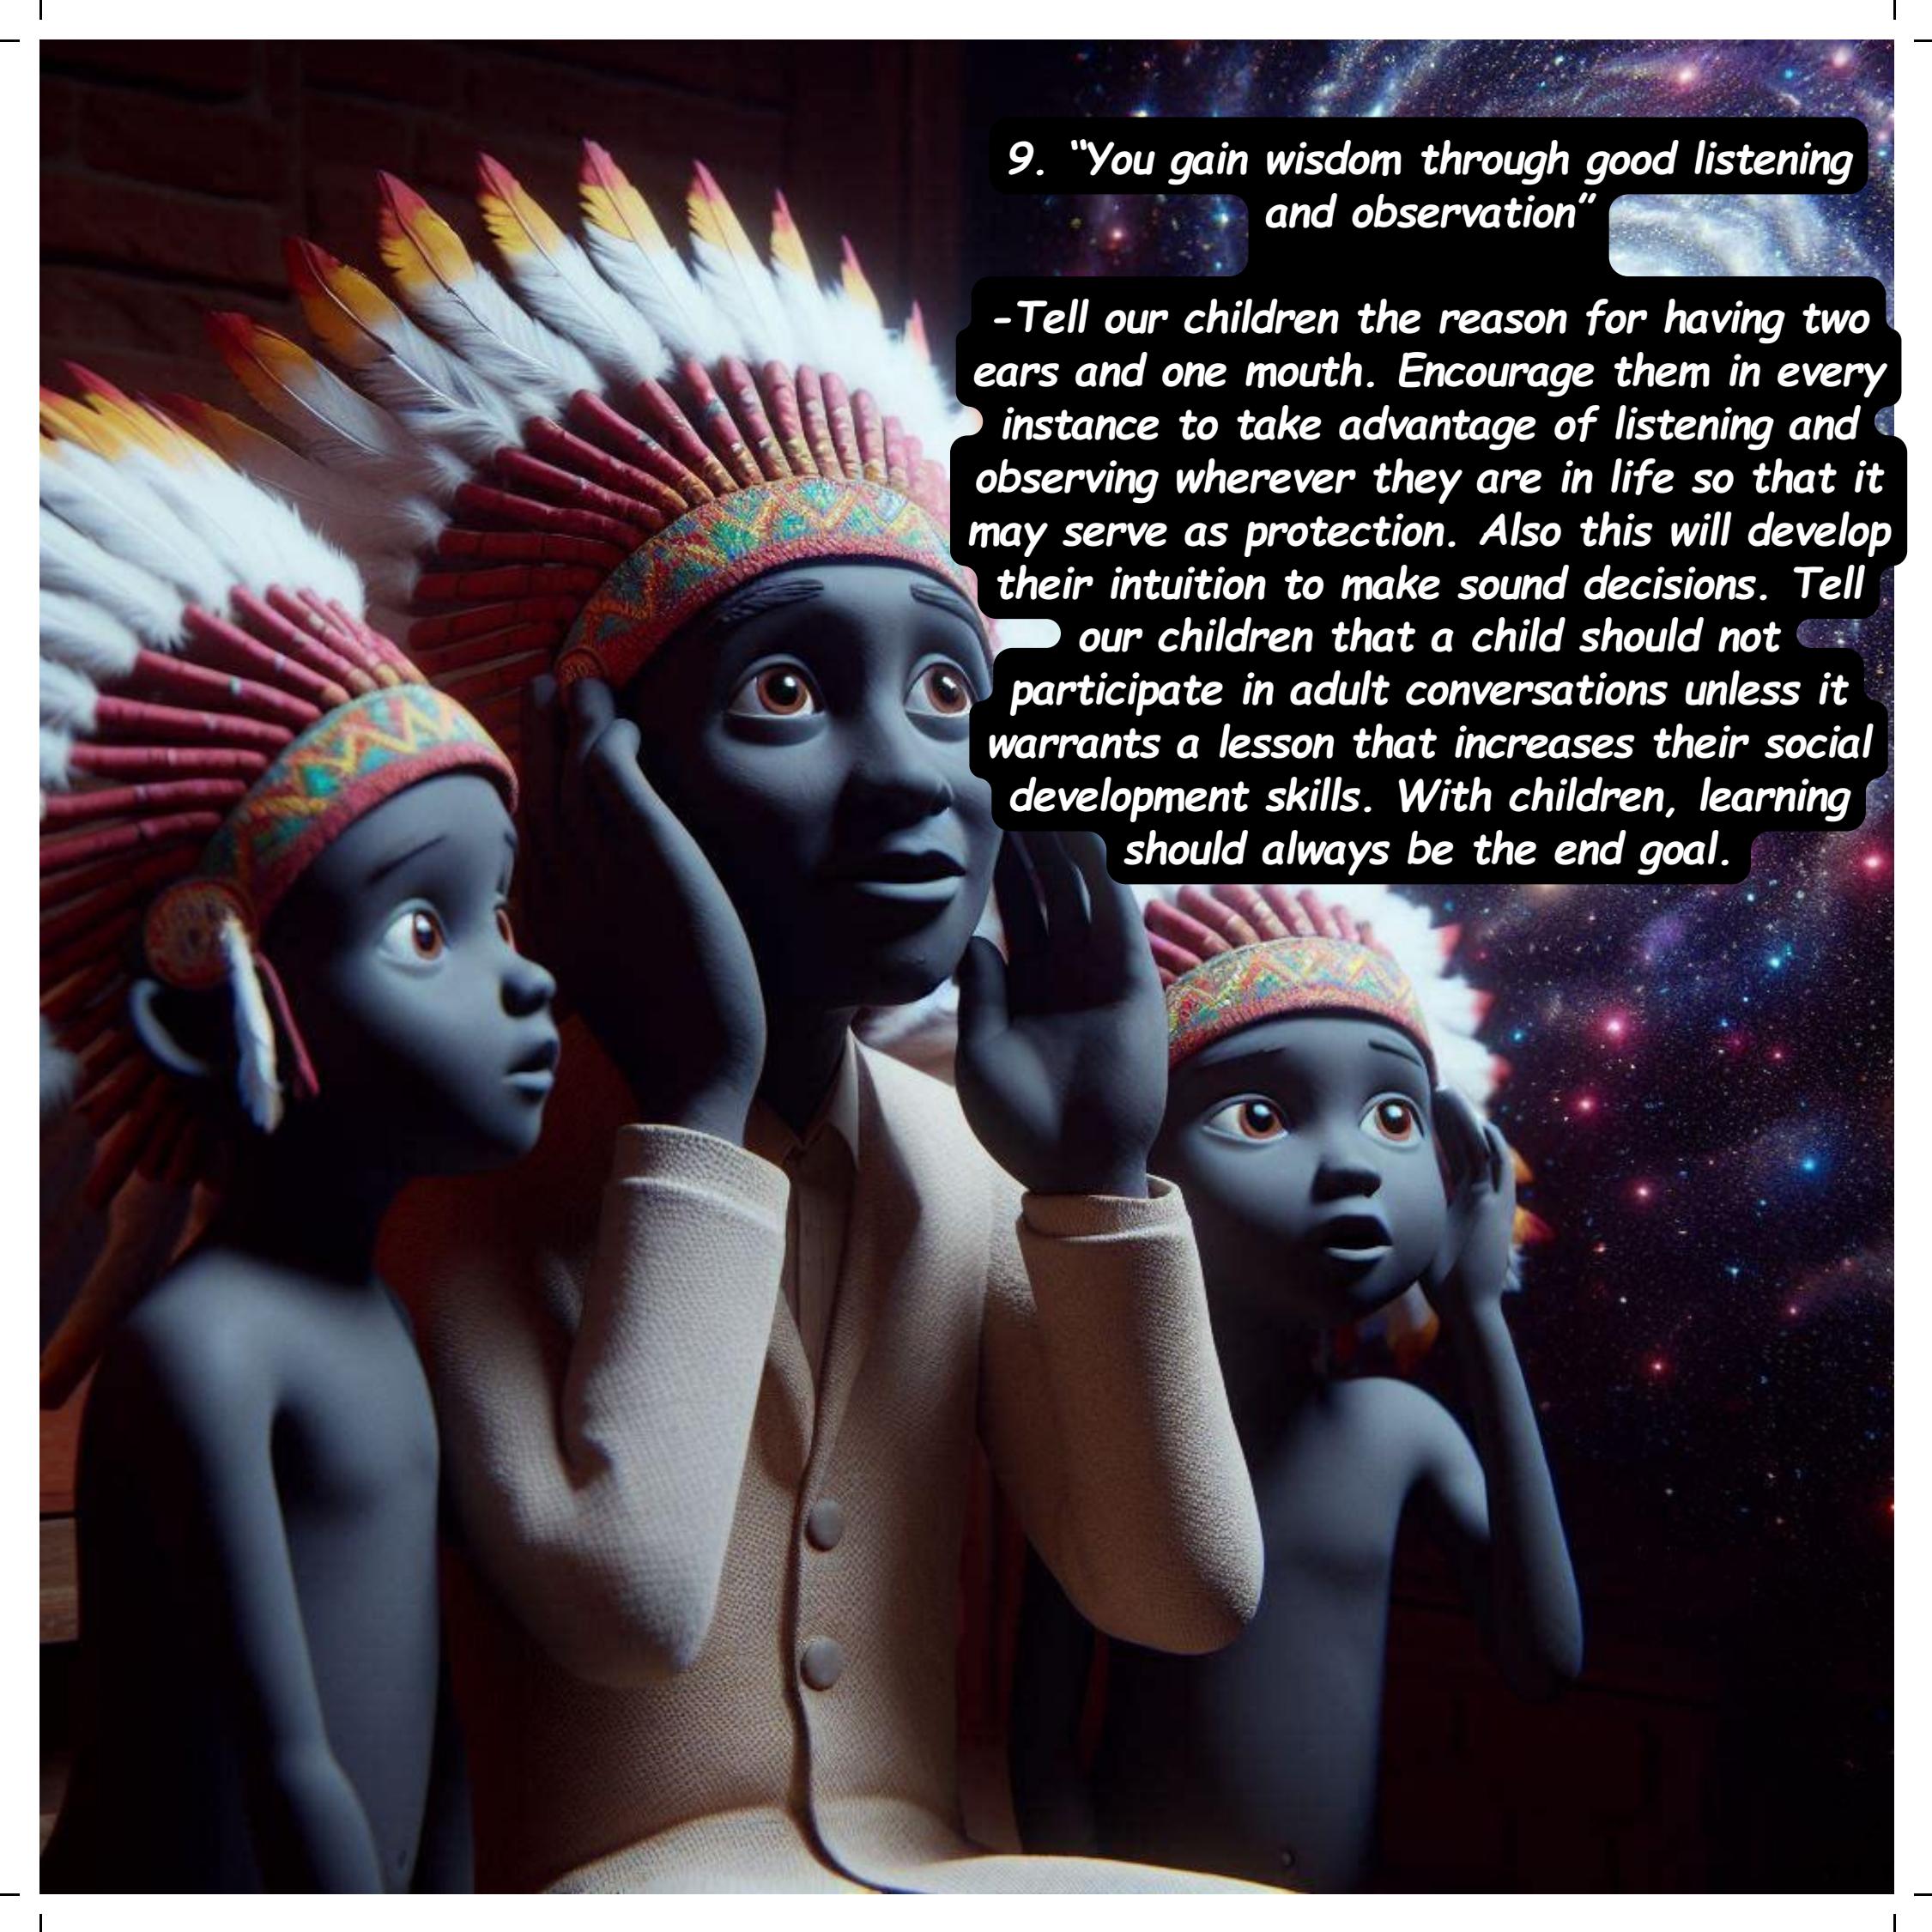

-Tell our children to be industrious and to learn how to manage finances early on so that they may learn economics to assist and aid in Family affairs. Be transparent with our children about family financial situations so that they can help with industrious acts and ideas. Let them know that it is the whole family's job to transfer assets and to create wealth. In addition to wealth...tell our children that the greatest asset is a sound mind and healthy functioning body. Introduce calisthenics to our children in early development years to increase good practice and routines.

8. "Humility with dignity and Humbleness with pride"

-Tell our children to be dignified and intentional when doing generous works for humanity. Tell them to be honored to help a fellow child when the need arises-to create a sense of comradeship between children. This transcends to adulthood as well. Tell them to take pride in being themselves and to never be embarrassed for doing so. Tell them about what it means to be humble and why they should remain that way to feel their spiritual intuition!

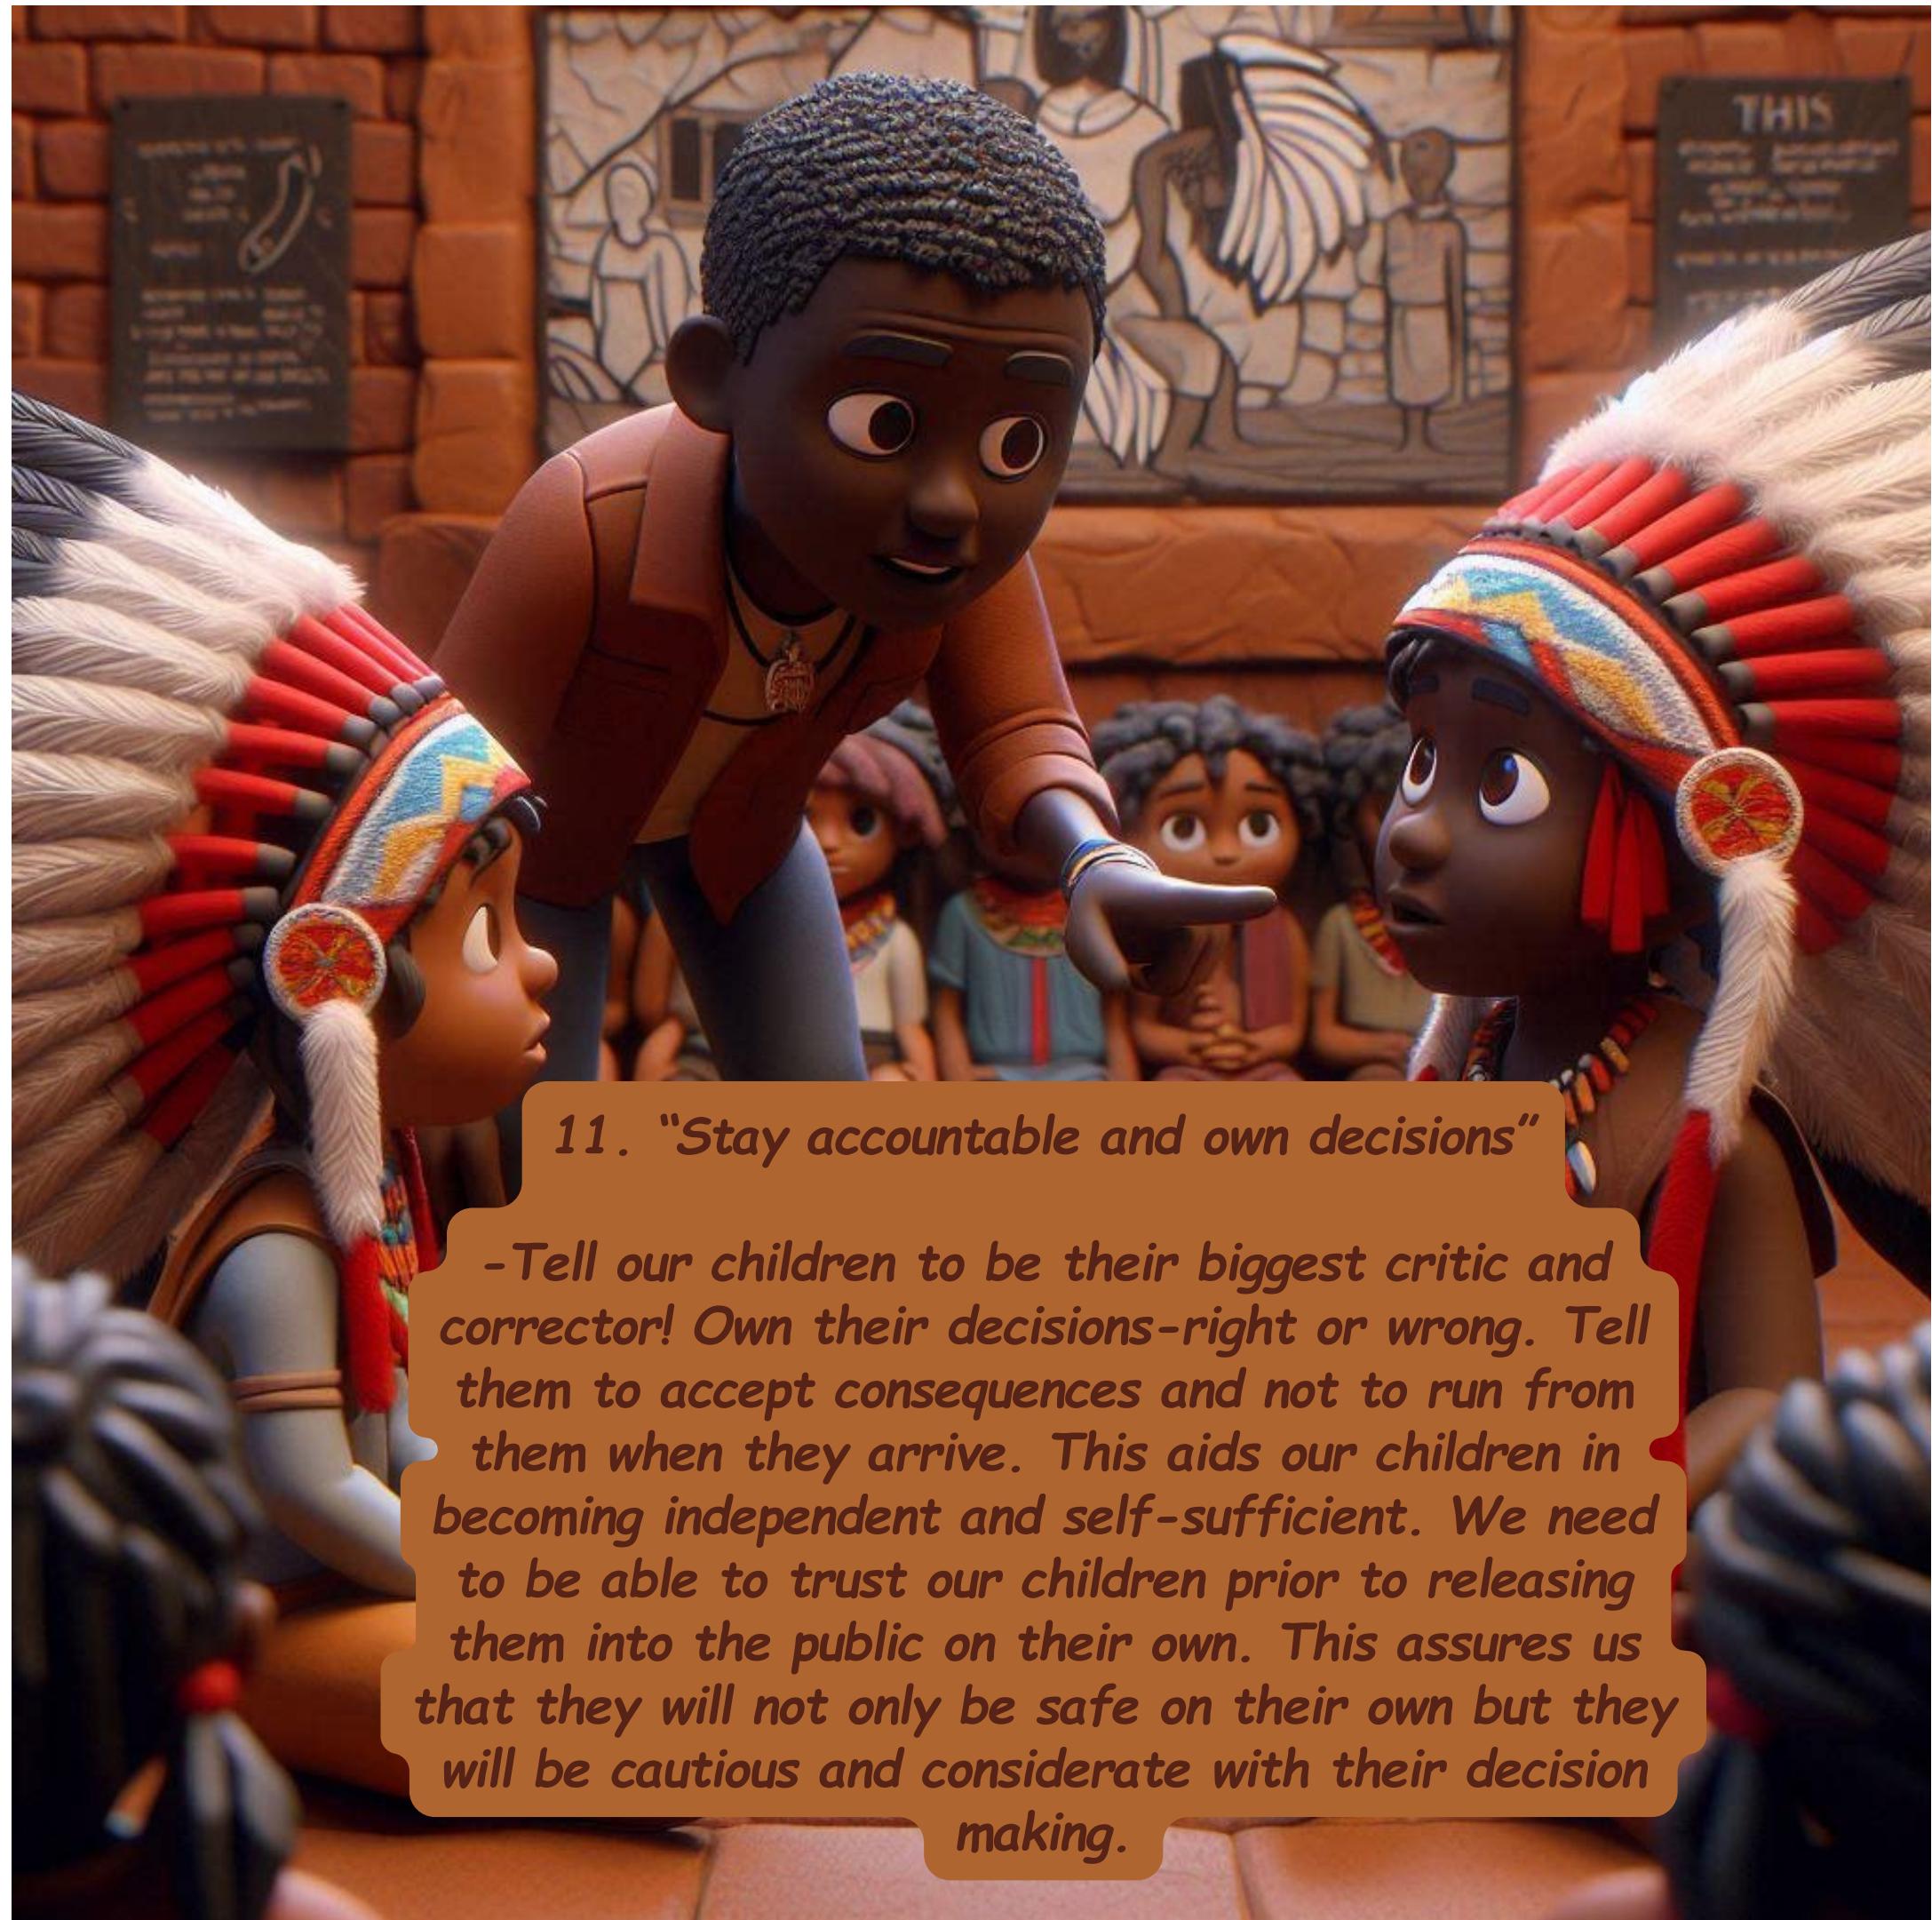

9. "You gain wisdom through good listening and observation"

- Tell our children the reason for having two ears and one mouth. Encourage them in every instance to take advantage of listening and observing wherever they are in life so that it may serve as protection. Also this will develop their intuition to make sound decisions. Tell our children that a child should not participate in adult conversations unless it warrants a lesson that increases their social development skills. With children, learning should always be the end goal.

10. "We are all responsible for the upkeep of our home"

- Tell our children that the cleanliness and upkeep of our home is all of our business and that they should be assisting in any chance that arises. This creates child investment in the family's affairs. Children long for responsibility and oftentimes-this is their first task of responsibility. Tell them about obligations and why this is one of theirs to complete at all times-proactively!

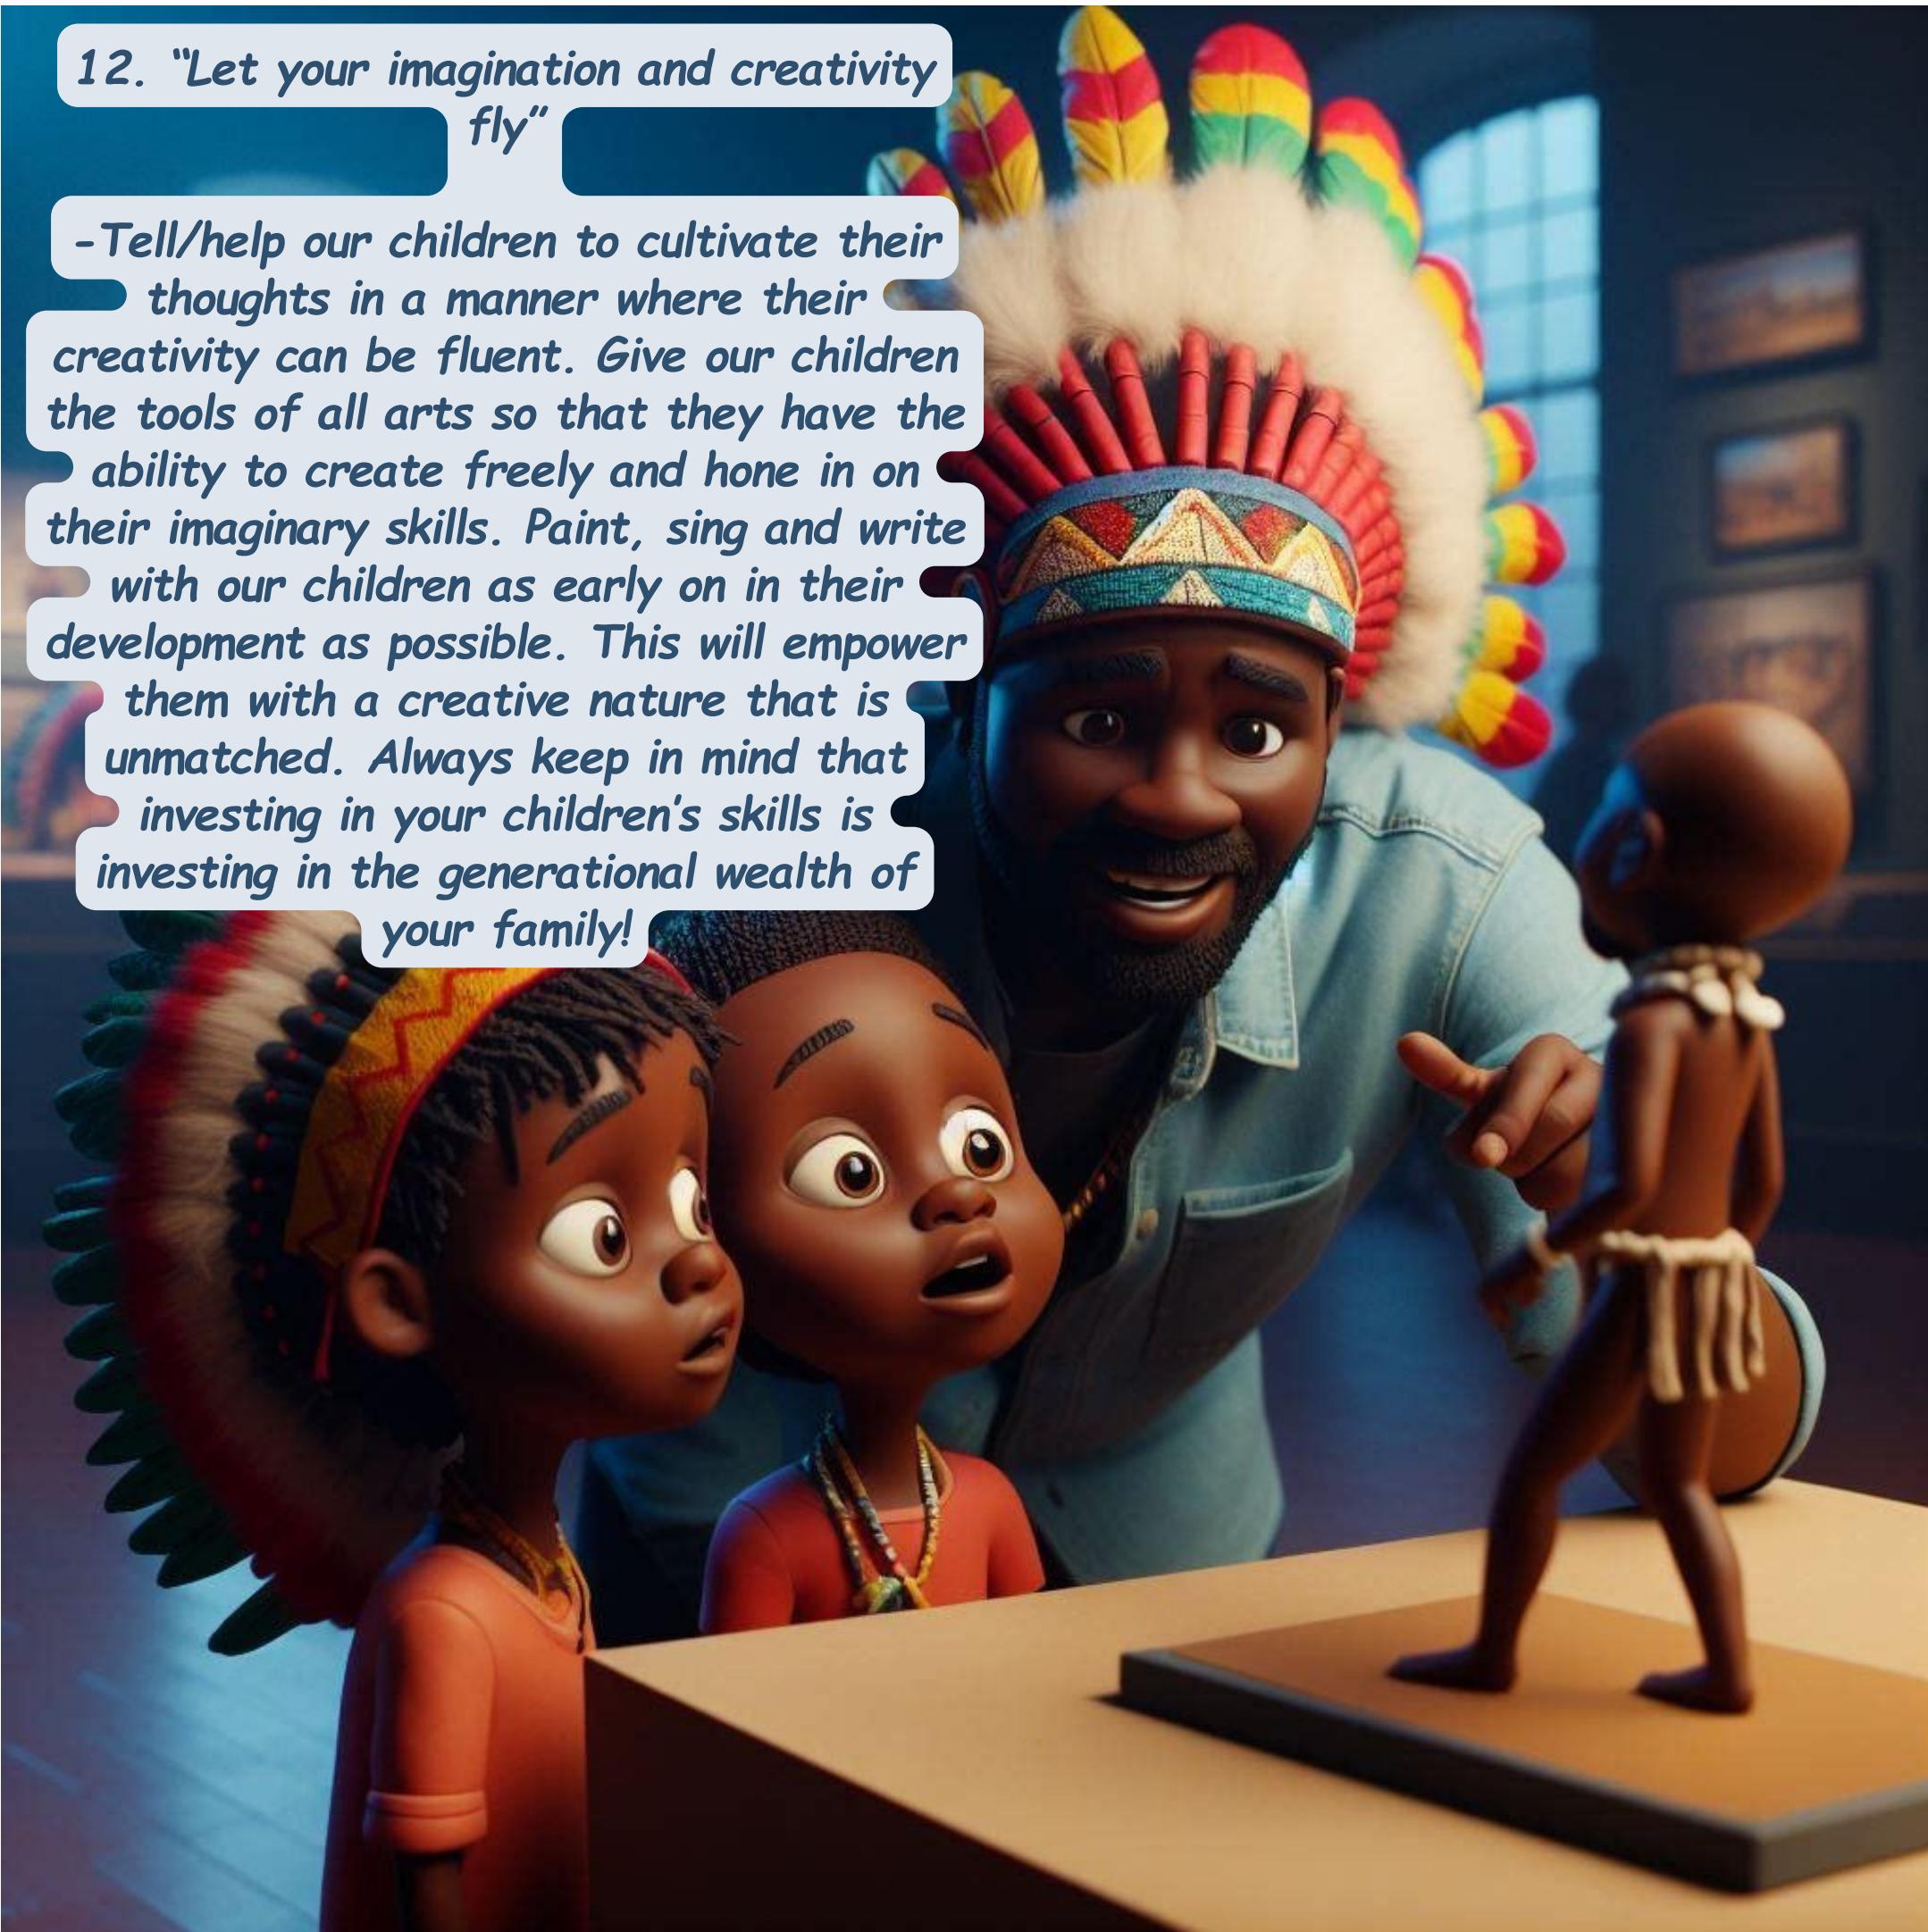

11. "Stay accountable and own decisions"

- Tell our children to be their biggest critic and corrector! Own their decisions-right or wrong. Tell them to accept consequences and not to run from them when they arrive. This aids our children in becoming independent and self-sufficient. We need to be able to trust our children prior to releasing them into the public on their own. This assures us that they will not only be safe on their own but they will be cautious and considerate with their decision making.

12. "Let your imagination and creativity fly"

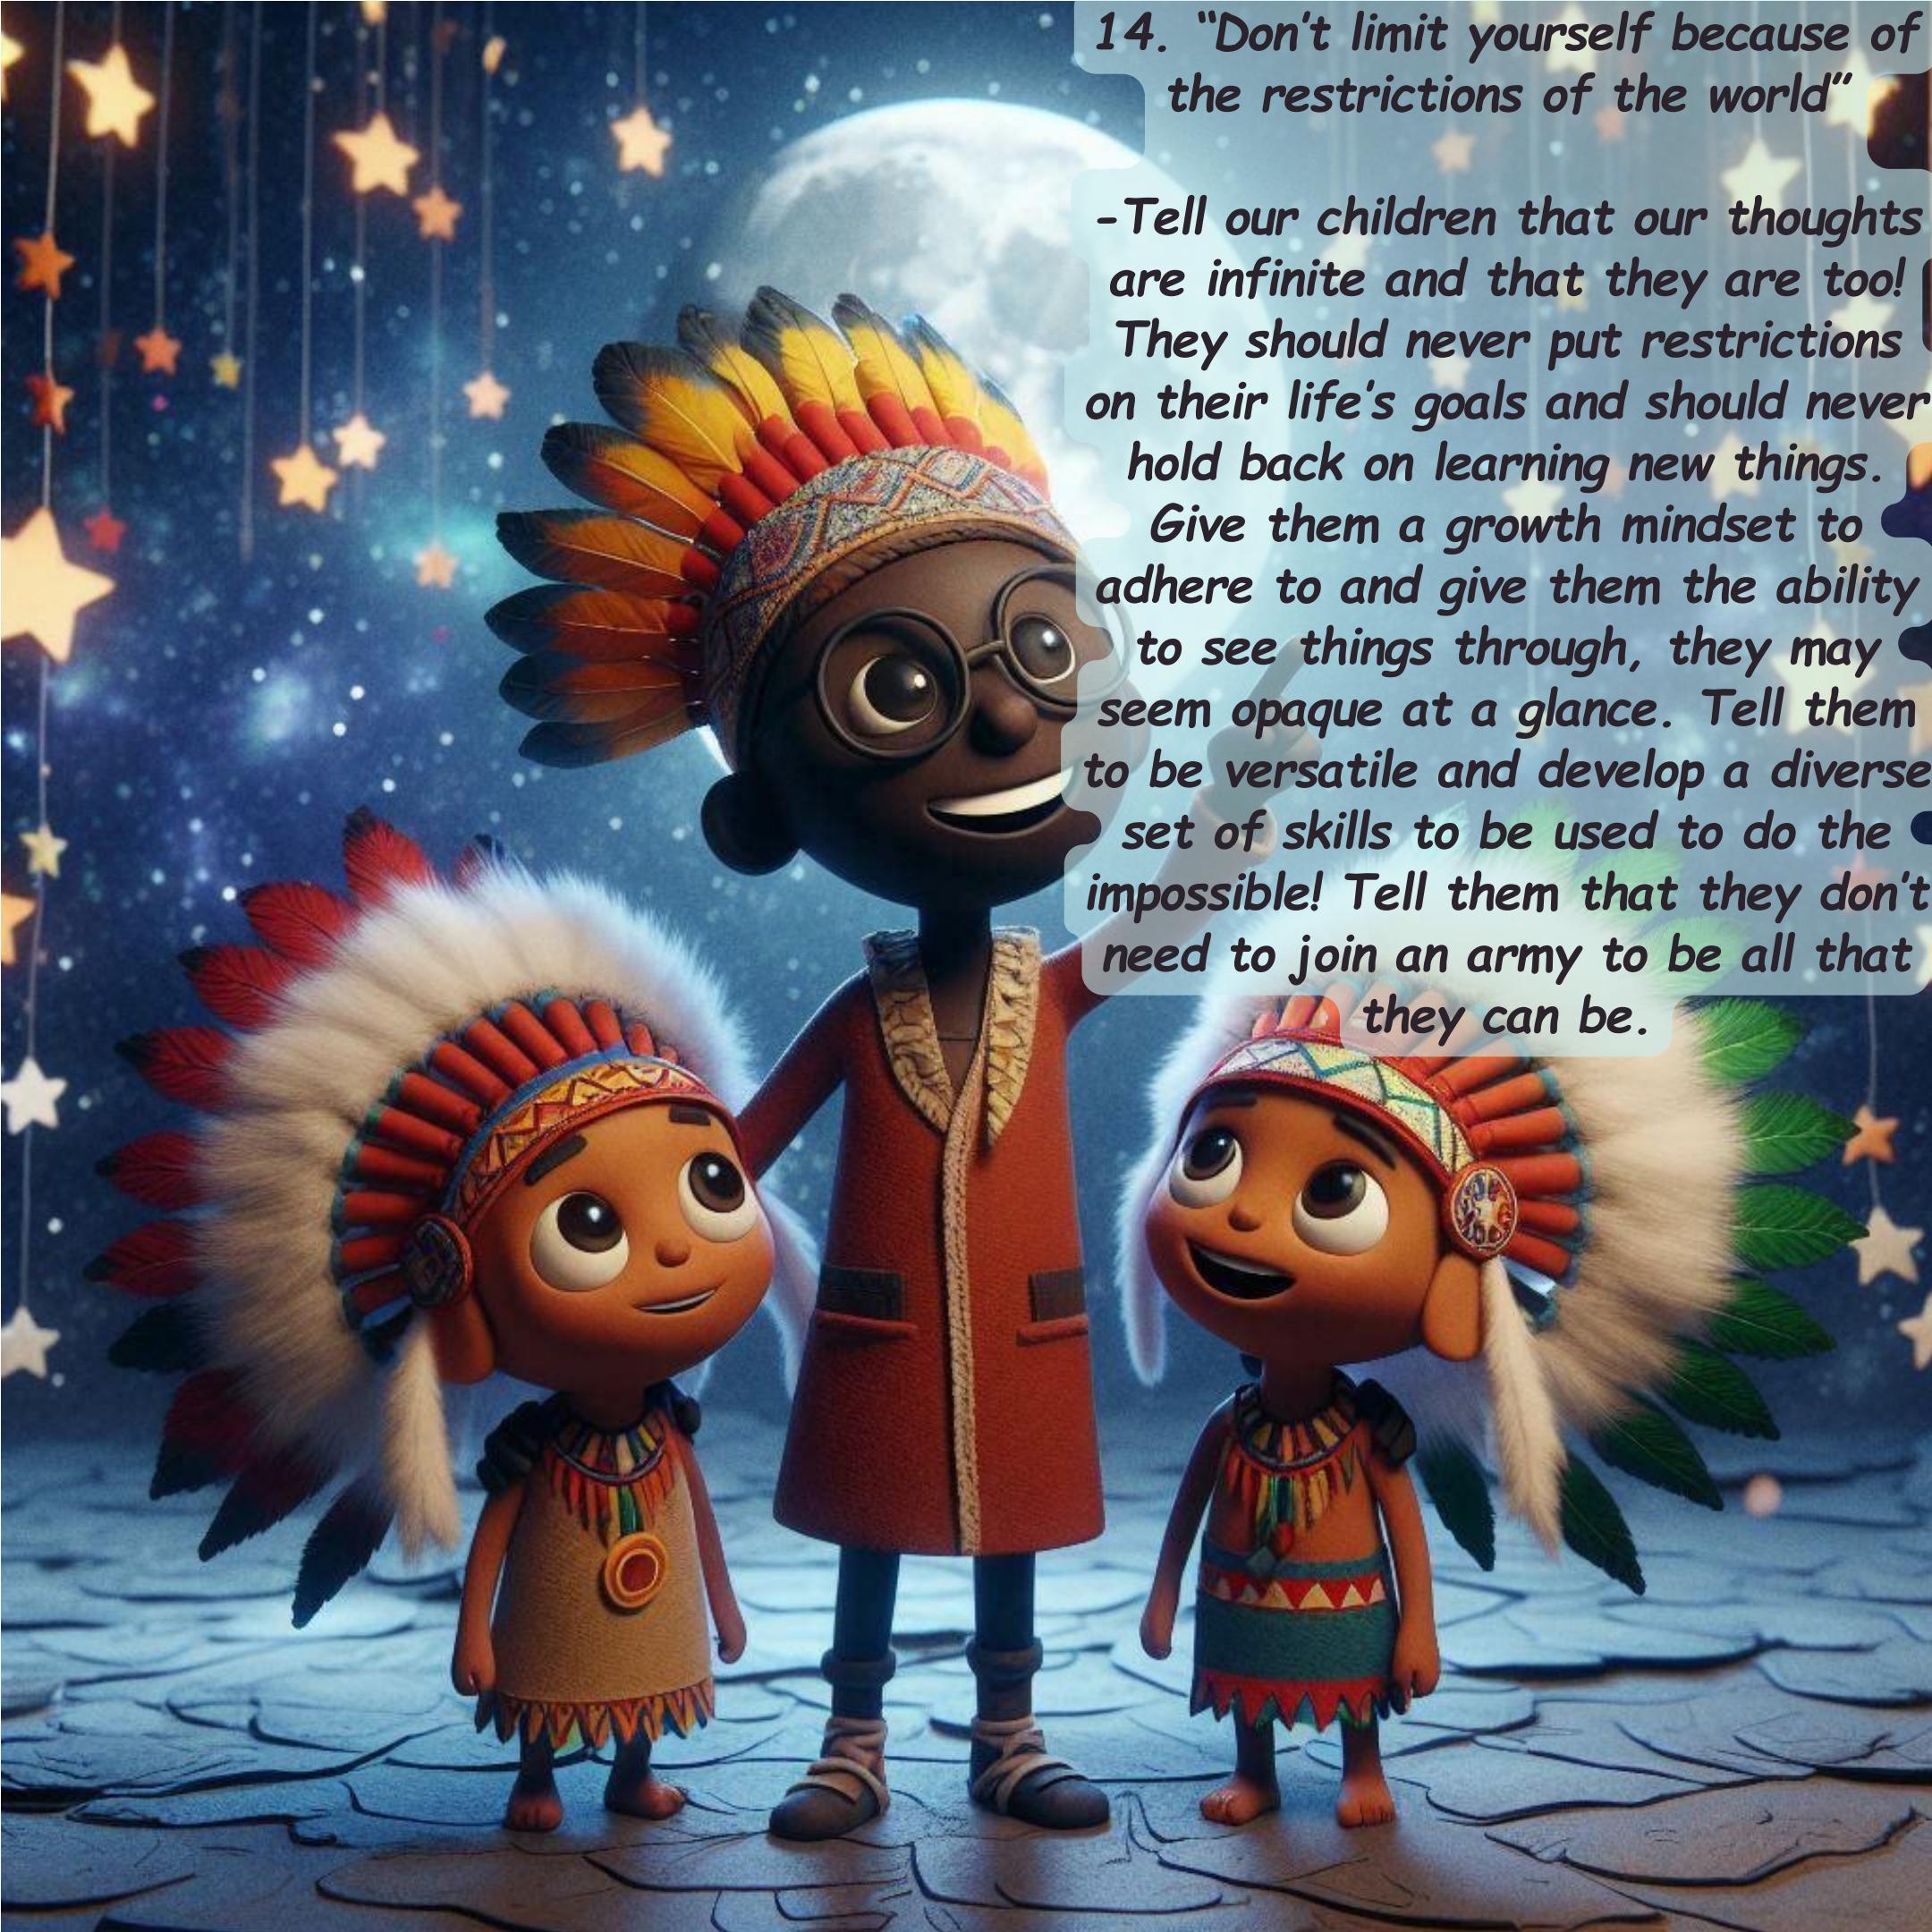

- Tell/help our children to cultivate their thoughts in a manner where their creativity can be fluent. Give our children the tools of all arts so that they have the ability to create freely and hone in on their imaginary skills. Paint, sing and write with our children as early on in their development as possible. This will empower them with a creative nature that is unmatched. Always keep in mind that investing in your children's skills is investing in the generational wealth of your family!

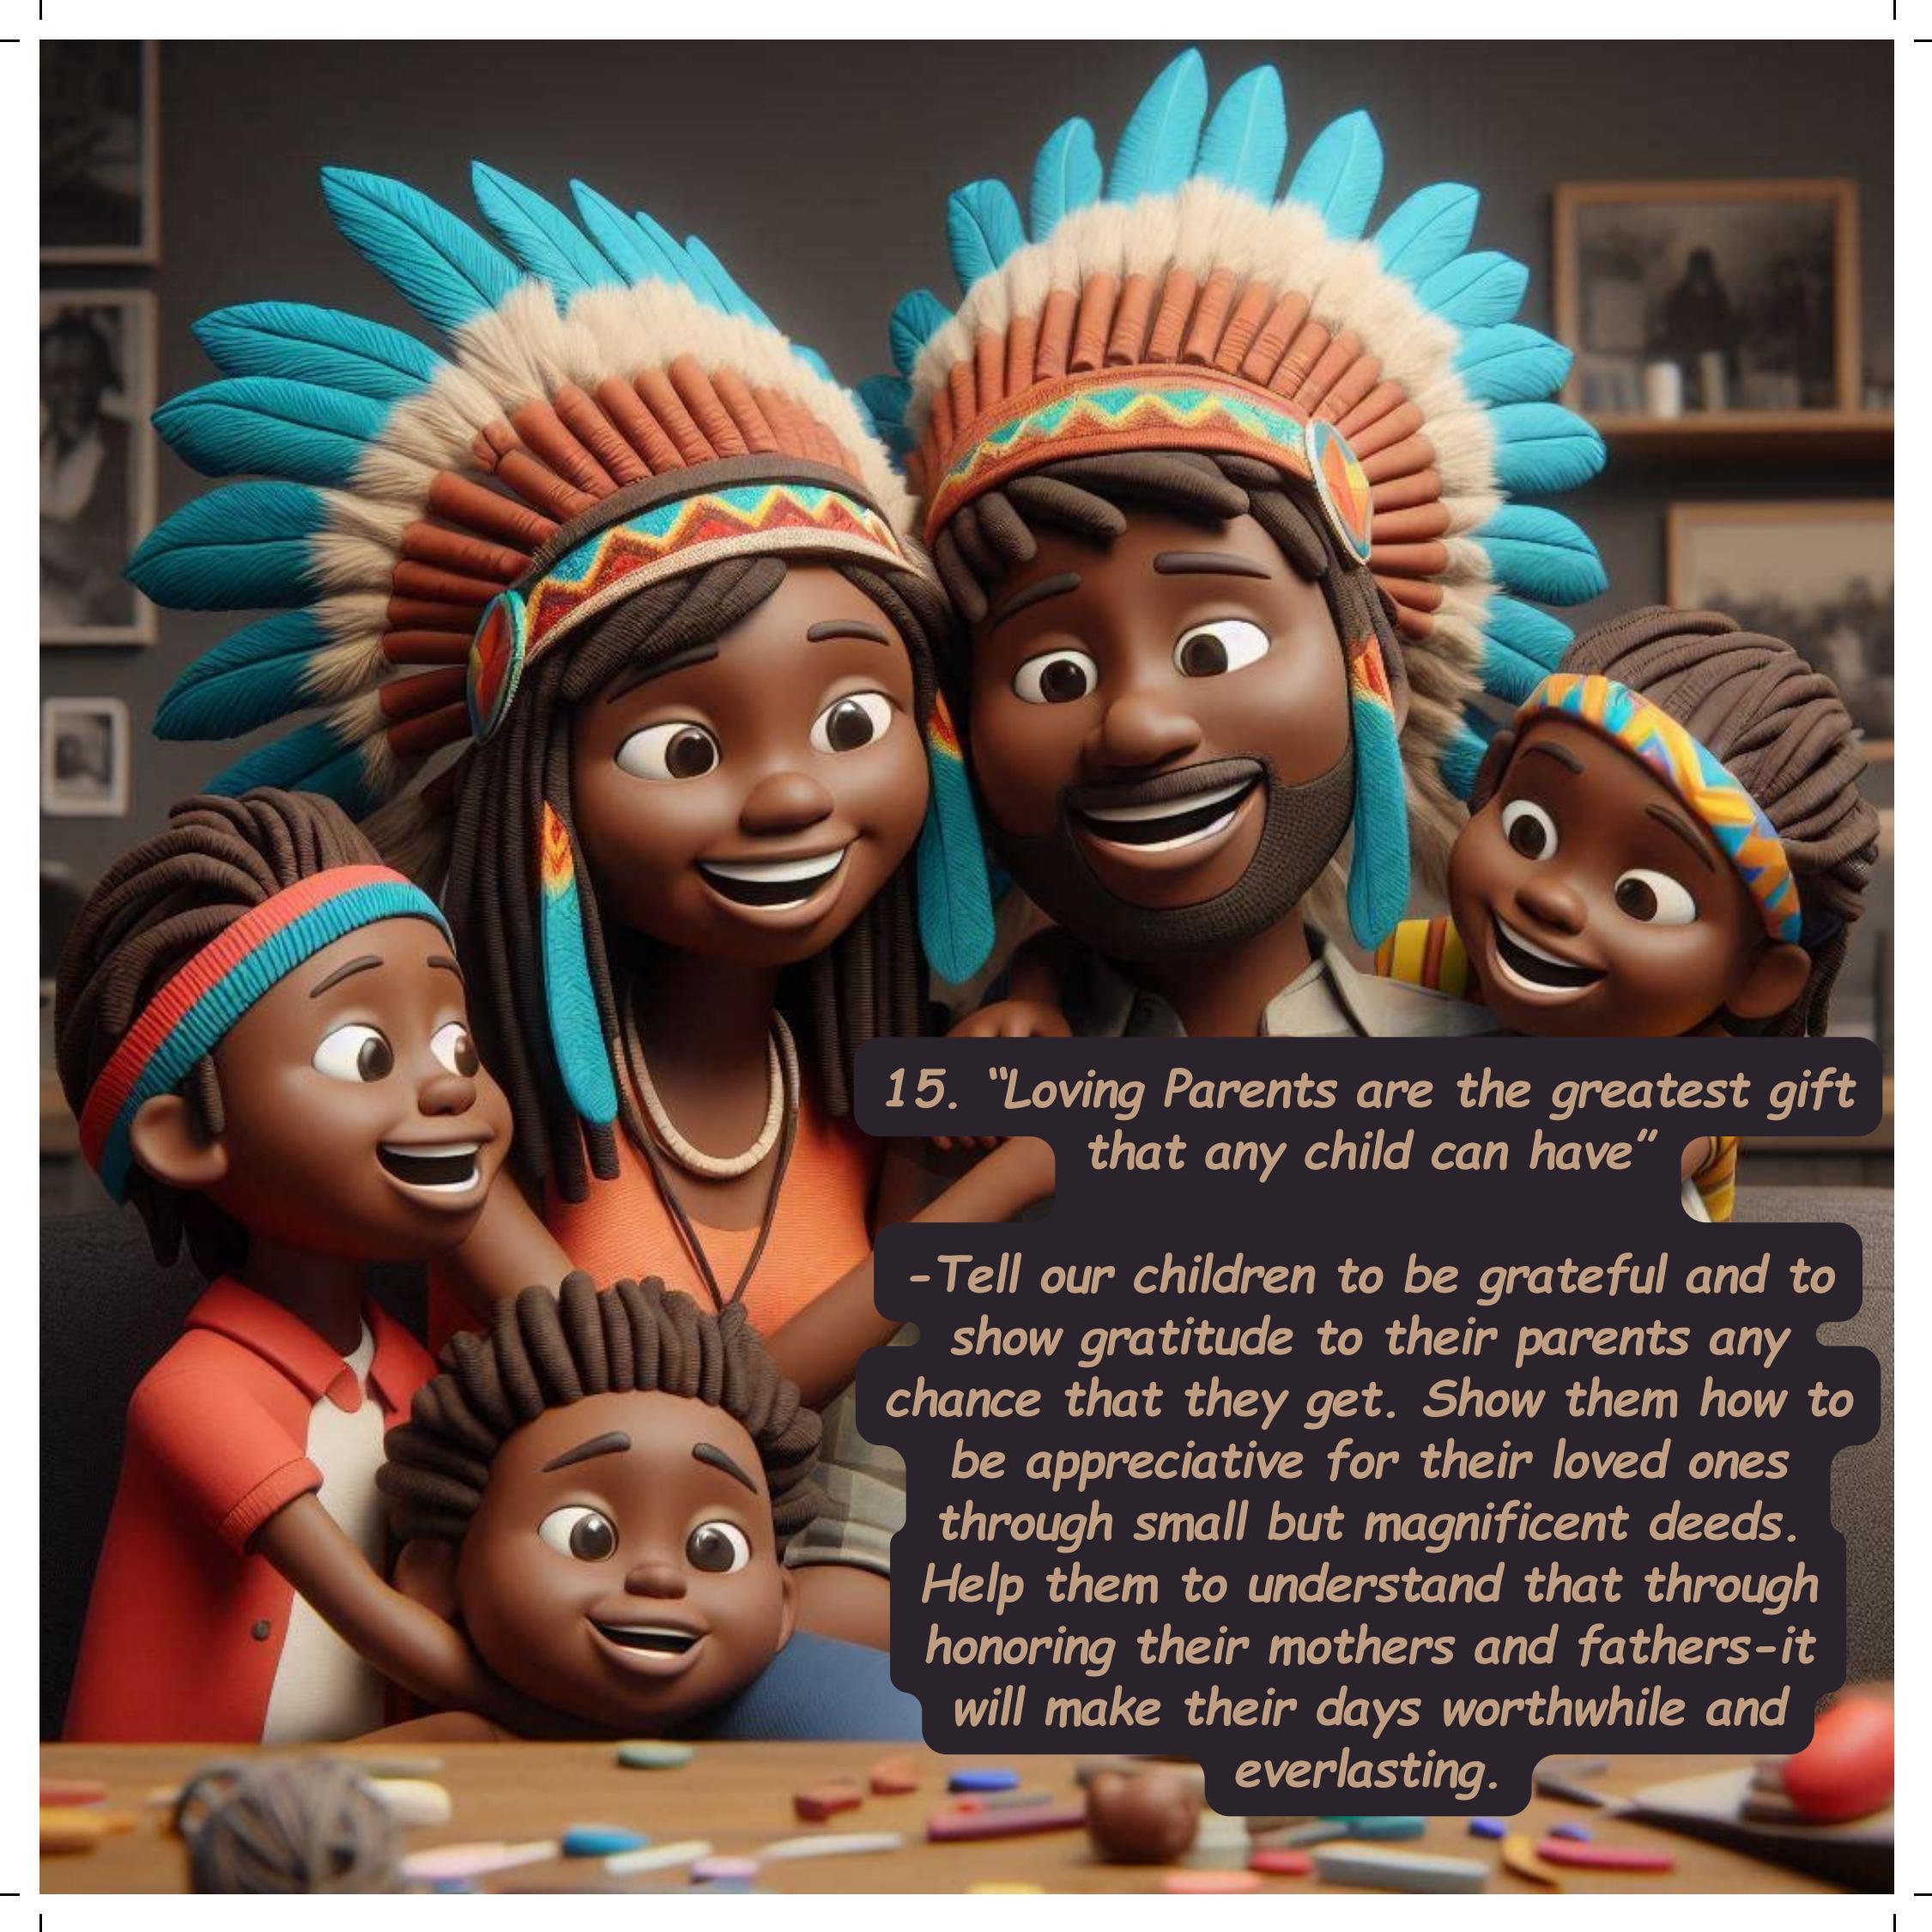

13. "Give everyone the grace and respect that you deserve"

- Tell our children to give out energy that they would want to receive. Show them how to communicate effectively to contribute to this notion. Display this with our children intentionally when dealing with difficult people specifically, so that they see an example of grace and energy bending practices. The cliche to treat everyone how you would want to be treated stands the test of time and aids our children in creating good environments.

14. "Don't limit yourself because of the restrictions of the world"

- Tell our children that our thoughts are infinite and that they are too! They should never put restrictions on their life's goals and should never hold back on learning new things. Give them a growth mindset to adhere to and give them the ability to see things through, they may seem opaque at a glance. Tell them to be versatile and develop a diverse set of skills to be used to do the impossible! Tell them that they don't need to join an army to be all that they can be.

15. "Loving Parents are the greatest gift that any child can have"

- Tell our children to be grateful and to show gratitude to their parents any chance that they get. Show them how to be appreciative for their loved ones through small but magnificent deeds. Help them to understand that through honoring their mothers and fathers-it will make their days worthwhile and everlasting.

As fathers and protectors of all life, let's be intentional about our children's development. Let's give love and light to all children so that they may continue to lift our world up from destruction and darkness. Children are the future and if we want to be a part of that future then we must give our children skills to ensure that we preserve that future. We must encourage their mothers and our mothers to be teammates to solidify proper understanding of family dynamics. They need family to thrive in any condition. We have to give them everything that they need so that ultimately we all benefit from their successes. To be a great father is to protect and teach all children and we are just that!
